 Agreeably to what we aſſured our readers, in our Review for June, that the Marquis d'Argens, is not the Author of Man a Machine, the Marquis has ſince cauſed an advertiſement to be inſerted in the General Advertiſer, dated Potzdam, Oct. 2, 1749, declaring his ſurprize, on hearing, that in the preface to the Engliſh tranſlation of that book, they attribute the original to him; that he never had any ſhare in it; and that the author is a Phyſician who has been obliged to quit France, &c. See p. 131.

ADVERTISEMENT.

UNdertakings that, in their execution, carry the deſignation of their uſe, need very little preface, and the preſent one perhaps the leaſt.

When the abuſe of title-pages is obviouſly come to ſuch a paſs, that few readers care to take in a book, any more than a ſervant, without a recommendation; to acquaint the public that a ſummary review of the productions of the preſs, as they occur to notice, was perhaps never more neceſſary than now, would be ſuperfluous and vain.

The cure then for this general complaint is evidently, and only, to be found in a periodical work, whoſe ſole object ſhould be to give a compendious account of thoſe productions of the preſs, as they come out, that are worth notice; an account, in ſhort, which ſhould, in virtue of its candour, and juſtneſs of diſtinction, obtain authority enough for its repreſentations to be ſerviceable to ſuch as would chooſe to have ſome idea of a book before they lay out their money or time on it. This is the view and aim of the preſent undertaking; and as it muſt neceſſarily ſtand or fall by the merit of the execution, on that we reſt the iſſue, without offering to prepoſſeſs the public in its favour.

N. B. The view of Mr. West's Odes of Pindar, &c. of L—d B———k's three letters, and of Gideon, a poem will be continued in the second; and, if found neceſſary, in the ſubſequent numbers of this work.

 The ſecond number will be publiſhed on the firſt of July next, and the publication will be regularly continued on the firſt day of every month.

The general title, with proper indexes, &c. will be printed with the number that concludes the firſt volume.
